

Commercial Dispute Management Service

Description of the service: The bank will manage the commercial claims made by the Customer up to 180 days after the date of payment or purchase, in relation to online purchases using the Aqua Máxima Card of an item, where the total price of the transaction (article, packaging, shipping costs and taxes) exceeds €10, and the item is not as expected (non-conformity) or has not been received (non-delivery) on its confirmed delivery date.

The dispute management service offered by BBVA does not guarantee a favorable outcome for the Customer.

This service does not regulate BBVA's liability as the provider of payment service to the Customer. Any unauthorised or incorrectly completed payments will be subject to specific payment services regulations.

Non-conformity is understood to mean:

- The item delivered does not correspond to the one that the Customer paid for with the Aqua Máxima Card and the business refuses a refund.
- If the item purchased is delivered with a fault (preventing it from working properly), is broken or incomplete and the business refuses a refund.

Non-delivery is understood to mean:

- The item acquired is not received on the scheduled delivery date, provided that the item has been paid for, and the business has not given or informed the Customer of new delivery date.
